HASTILY MOBILIZED POLICE FORCES SEARCHING NEARBY WOODS

GENERAL POLICE ALARM WAS SOUNDED FROM ST. PAUL AND MINNEAPOLIS

White Bear, Minn., July 14—(U.P.)—Hastily mobilized police forces of two counties and the twin cities searched wooded sections near here for two bandits who escaped after shooting H. Allynn Warner, cashier of the First State bank of White Bear.

The pair obtained approximately $800.

A general police alarm brought aid from St. Paul and Minneapolis and deputy sheriffs of both Ramsey and Washington counties.

Warner, who was rushed to St. John's hospital in St. Paul, was so critically wounded when shot in the right shoulder that his recovery was doubtful.

While his companion waited in a blue sedan, the bandit who entered the bank posed as an adding machine adjustor. He talked to Warner who was alone in the cage and then ordered the cashier to throw up his hands.

Posses were hastily organized and searched the surrounding countryside. The bandit car was found abandoned at the intersection of a country road and the Centerville highway. The country thereabouts is heavily wooded and it was believed that the bandits may have decided to hide away until the searching posses had passed.

Three police cars from St. Paul were ordered to aid in the search. Agents of the Minnesota bureau of criminal apprehension were dispatched to aid the White Bear officers.

Berlin, July 14—(U.P.)—Germany's financial machinery stood still today with all banks closed and trading in securities and commodity markets suspended.

The public was dazed and confused, wondering what to expect, with the better informed fairly confident the government would find a way out and a big international loan would come to prevent a crash.

The feverish excitement of the last few days had abated somewhat into a sort of dull apathy.

Nevertheless the cries of women before locked bank doors, clamoring for money to buy bread, and the exhortations of communist agitators in the Ruhr, Germany's "Pittsburgh area," gave the scene still a touch of desperation.

Banks were closed under presidential decree for today and tomorrow, but it was hoped they could reopen Thursday, in time to distrbiute funds to meet wage and salary payments.

The Bourse was closed for the week, and commodity exchanges followed, i ntime to distribute funds vent panic, runs on banks, and particularly a drain on the big banks through withdrawals of foreign currencies from Germany.

Germany, long schooled in the hard discipline of years of the "Verboten" era, responded stolidly to the emergency measures. Rain fell heavily in Berlin today, and seemed to calm after the hectic excitement of recent days, though tension still prevailed.

Even the news that the bank of International settlements at Basle had agreed to a renewal of credits to the Reich—with prospects of international loans to tide over the present strin-

Maloney tried to pump gasoline from the reserve tank but the pump, he said failed to work. Storms had forced them out of their course, they said, using up their fuel supply in the detour.

They nosed down and were looking for a place to land when the motor suddenly stopped altogether, Yerrington said. He brought the plane down on a lonely beach, but crashed into a tree. The plane was damaged but neither flier was hurt.

They started to walk to Tampico, but were picked up by Pilot Hoffman, of the Mexican Aviation Co., one of the rescue pilots sent out to search for them.

Berlin, July 14—(U.P.)—Germany's financial machinery stood still today with all banks closed and trading in securities and commodity markets suspended.

The public was dazed and confused, wondering what to expect, with the better informed fairly confident the government would find a way out and a big international loan would come to prevent a crash.

The feverish excitement of the last few days had abated somewhat into a sort of dull apathy.

Nevertheless the cries of women before locked bank doors, clamoring for money to buy bread, and the exhortations of communist agitators in the Ruhr, Germany's "Pittsburgh area," gave the scene still a touch of desperation.

Banks were closed under presidential decree for today and tomorrow, but it was hoped they could reopen Thursday, in time to distrbiute funds to meet wage and salary payments.

The Bourse was closed for the week, and commodity exchanges followed, i ntime to distribute funds vent panic, runs on banks, and particularly a drain on the big banks through withdrawals of foreign currencies from Germany.

Germany, long schooled in the hard discipline of years of the "Verboten" era, responded stolidly to the emergency measures. Rain fell heavily in Berlin today, and seemed to calm after the hectic excitement of recent days, though tension still prevailed.

Even the news that the bank of International settlements at Basle had agreed to a renewal of credits to the Reich—with prospects of international loans to tide over the present strin-

NEW YORK-MEXICO NONSTOP CAME TO QUICK GRIEF

YERRINGTON AND MALONEY PLAN TO RETURN TO NEW YORK CITY

LEAVE DISABLED MACHINE NEAR TAMPICO, MOTOR HAD BALKED

Tampico, Mexico, July 14—(U.P.)—Seth Yerrington and Edward Maloney, whose airplane was forced down near here yesterday on a projected New York-Mexico City non-stop flight, said today they planned to return to New York, leaving the disabled machine on the isolated beach where they came to earth.

Yerrington, at the controls when forced down, said they landed due to lack of fuel. He said he was flying high above the clouds when they noticed the motor was missing fire. Maloney tried to pump gasoline from the reserve tank but the pump, he said failed to work. Storms had forced them out of their course, they said, using up their fuel supply in the detour.

They nosed down and were looking for a place to land when the motor suddenly stopped altogether, Yerrington said. He brought the plane down on a lonely beach, but crashed into a tree. The plane was damaged but neither flier was hurt.

They started to walk to Tampico, but were picked up by Pilot Hoffman, of the Mexican Aviation Co., one of the rescue pilots sent out to search for them.

COUNCIL OF BANK OF INTERNATIONAL SETTLEMENTS AGREES TO SAME

Basle, Switzerland, July 14—(U.P.)—The Hoover plan was made effective today when the council of the Bank of International settlements agreed on a method by which Germany's unconditional Young plan annuity may be made to the bank in monthly installments.

The details were arranged by Dr. Hans Luther before his departure. Thus Germany will pay in during the year the unconditional annuity, as demanded by France to keep the Young plan intact, but will get it back as a loan.

ELDERLY MAN DIES AFTER CAR ROLLS OVER ON HIGHWAY

CLIP CAR OF ANOTHER IN PASSING, THEY LOSE CONTROL OF VEHICLE

ONE DIES FROM LOSS OF BLOOD SOON AFTER; OTHER NEAR DEATH IN HOSPITAL

The clipping of a fender of another car as they speeded by caused the fatality of one elderly man, believed over 70 years of age, in an automobile acident a short distance north of Fort Ripley on Trunk Highway No. 27 early this afternoon.

His elderly companion was reported fatally injured. Attending physicians said his death was expected momentarily.

The victims were enroute north to Brainerd to fish in the lakes near here. Witnesses asserted they were speeding at an estimated rate of 60 miles an hour when they clipped the fender of the other car, throwing their car out of control and rolling over on the highway. Both cars were travelling north.

One of the victims, W. J. Warner, Shakopee, is near death in St.. Joseph hospital 3 hours after the accident. He had been rushed there by the D. E. Whitney ambulance. His injuries were reported that of a fractured skull, cuts about the body and intense shock.

The other victim, a Mr. Huber of Shakopee, died at the side of the highway. The direct cause of his death was attributed to loss of blood from a deep gash in his left leg and severe shock.

Coroner D. E. Whitney, Dr. R. A. Beise, Sheriff Frank E. Little and members of the Minnesota Highway Patrol answered the summons of help from Brainerd.

An army truck from Camp Ripley brought the body of Huber to Brainerd.

Circumstances of the accident were provided by the occupants of the other car, D. H. Farrell, 2716 Hennepin Ave., and Wm. Webber, 4504 Brookside, both of Minneapolis.

The men said they were driving north when another car came from the rear. They felt the car strike the front left fender of their vehicle and then proceed to swerve on the highway. The driver of the fatal car failed to right the vehicle on the road. It swerved about and then rolled over on the highway, coming to a stop on its side and turned about.

Farrell, in the meantime, had stopped his car. He proceeded to the accident and soon a large crowd of travellers and people from the village had gathered. Camp Ripley was notified and sent medical men to give first aid.

Both victims were dressed in outing clothes. They carried a card of a nearby resort where it is believed they planned to stop and fish.

The victims' car was a Buick while that driven by Farrell is a Chevrolet. The latter was slightly damaged. The former was badly wrecked.

Relatives of the victims were en route to Brainerd from Shakopee this afternoon.

BEARS WARNED TO QUIT RAIDS AGAINST STOCK EXCHANGE ISSUES

New York, July 14.—(U.P.)—Bears, according to unconfirmed reports today have been warned by big bankers and the stock exchange to refrain from making raids against stock exchange issues.

Action of the stock market prices, however, give evidence of complete absence of the professional bearish element.

Prices moved down slowly without particular pressure against any issue. Trading was barely at the rate of 1,000,000 shares for a full session, or back to levels of 1926 when the Coolidge bull market was getting underway.

Washington, July 14.—(U.P.)—A new challenge to legality of the hundreds of licenses held by the Radio Corporation of America and its subsidiaries for broadcasting and wireless communications was made today in the District of Columbia court of appeals.

Legality of the licenses was challenged in an appeal by station WTMJ, Milwaukee, from the recent decision of the federal radio commission upholding the right of R. C. A. to the licenses.

ANY TIRE manufacturer or dealer who tells you a "breaker strip" is a "ply"—or that tire performance depends on weight—deceives you.

BEWARE THE MAN WHO TELLS YOU THIS IS A PLY . . . . . .

It is NOT A PLY, it is a breaker strip! The National Better Business Bureau defines a "ply" as follows—

> "A ply is one of a number of layers of rubberized cotton fabric, either cord or square woven, extending from bead to bead, and forming the body of the tire."

Four or six plies form the carcass or the body of the tire. If the fabric does NOT extend entirely around the tire from BEAD TO BEAD, IT IS NOT A PLY. The illustration points out the difference between a ply and a breaker strip. It also points out the "beads."

Certain manufacturers and dealers, jealous of Ward's commanding position in the tire industry, have made misleading statements about Ward's tires. They have published and displayed misleading charts—they have shown sections of obsolete tires—they compare their "second line" tires with our "first line" tires—and now in advertising and selling talks, "breaker strips" are being called "plys." These misleading statements, however, are cleverly worded and the breaker strip is called "a ply under the tread." No twisting of words, however, can turn a BREAKER STRIP into a PLY. Every tire manufacturer and dealer knows it, AND WE BELIEVE THE CUSTOMER, TOO, IS ENTITLED TO KNOW THE FACTS.

BEWARE THE MAN WHO SAYS WEIGHT DENOTES SUPERIORITY

Many readers are familiar with the recent Firestone ads which compare Firestone tires with unidentified mail order tires. Weight has been given prominence as one of the items of comparison. Montgomery Ward & Co. maintains that weight is NOT AN INDICATION OF TIRE QUALITY.

We recently purchased five Firestone Oldfield tires and five Firestone High Speed tires—the High Speed tire is more expensive than the Oldfield. These tires were carefully weighed by Dr. Ellery H. Harvey, and the results are shown in the statement at the right.

In the first place, note that there is a variation of five ounces between the heaviest and the lightest Oldfield, and that there is a six-ounce variation between the heaviest and the lightest Firestone High Speed. MOST IMPORTANT OF ALL NOTE THAT THE AVERAGE WEIGHT OF THE OLDFIELD IS ONE POUND FIVE OUNCES HEAVIER THAN THE AVERAGE WEIGHT OF THE HIGH SPEED TIRES. If weight denotes superiority, why is the cheaper Firestone tire heavier than the more expensive Firestone tire? Surely this should convince any unbiased person how ridiculous it is to consider weight an indication of tire quality. Again we say, WE BELIEVE THE CUSTOMER IS ENTITLED TO KNOW THE FACTS.

On June 20, 1931, I weighed five Firestone Oldfield tires on a tested Howe scale. Immediately after on the same scale I weighed five Firestone four ply High Speed tires. All ten tires were size 4.50-21. They weighed as follows:

	Firestone Oldfield	Firestone 4-Ply High Speed
	17 lbs. 8 oz.	16 lbs. 5 oz.
	17 lbs. 9 oz.	16 lbs. 1 oz.
	17 lbs. 7 oz.	16 lbs. 3 oz.
	87 lbs. 9 oz.	81 lbs. 2 oz.
Avg. wt. per tire	17 lbs. 8 oz.	16 lbs. 3 oz.
Variation between lightest and heaviest tire	5 oz.	6 oz.

The* RIVERSIDE *is our first quality tire. It is made by one of the largest tire companies in the world. It is built to one of the most stringent sets of specifications in the tire industry. It has been sold by Ward's for 19 years. Millions are in use today. Riversides are backed by a guarantee without limit as to time or mileage. Other famous nationally advertised tires that are equal to Riversides are much higher priced than Riversides.

The table at the right gives you the sizes for size price comparison. Having studied the price comparison with other makes, the only question for you to ask is: "Are Riverside tires really as good as these other tires with which they are compared?" Well, Montgomery Ward & Co. is one of the largest and oldest merchandise institutions in the world. It is the originator of the "Satisfaction Guaranteed or Your Money Back" guarantee. It depends for its business not only on tires but also on some 40,000 other items of merchandise which it sells to you. Certainly it is reasonable to believe that Ward's is maintaining the truth in making these statements.

The* TRAIL BLAZER *is our second quality tire. It is equal to any of the "second line" tires offered by well known tire companies. As you no doubt know, close to 90% of all newspaper advertising of the big tire companies is devoted to their "second line" tires, and it is these tires with which Trail Blazers compare. However, Trail Blazers SELL FOR LESS than other second line tires.

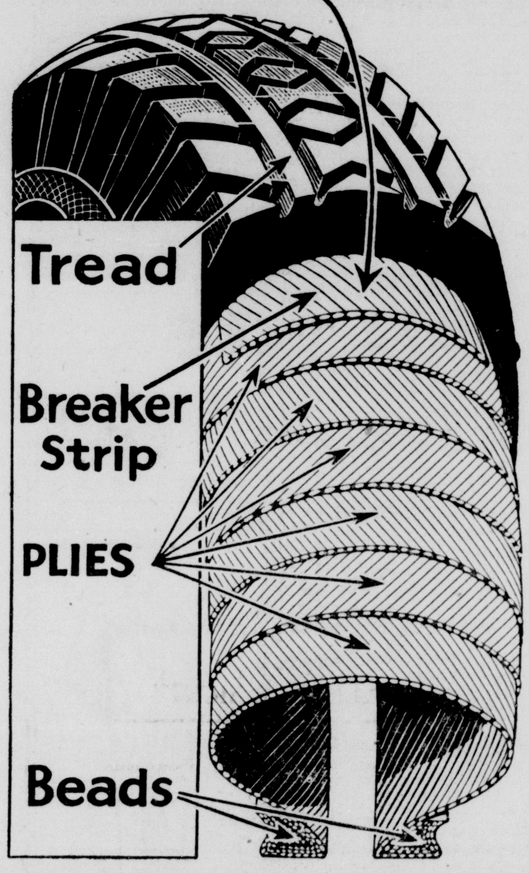

This combination of quality with lowest price which is offered by Ward's seems to have made some of our competitors very envious, so they are making and publishing misleading and incorrect statements about mail order tires. But they do not compare their first quality tires with our Riversides and their second quality tires with our Trail Blazers. They know to do so would immediately indicate how much lower Ward's tires are priced. So they have cunningly priced their "second line" tires at exactly our Riverside prices, and they print comparison tables which are intended to make people believe that their prices are the same as ours. Well, they are not. The chart at the left is a true comparison, quality for quality, and price for price.

Bok's Contributions as an Editor

READING the autobiography of Edward Bok one gets a clear view of the many sides and activities of a real editor. Edward Bok and every other public spirited editor is a Rotarian by instinct and practice, though he may not belong to a service club.

Bok came of a Dutch family that believed in making the world a bit more beautiful and better because they had been in it.

Bok's view of the editor of a magazine compares favorably with that of the editor of a newspaper. Bok saw that the average popular magazine of his day failed of large success because it wrote down to the public. No one wants to be told, either directly or indirectly, that he knows less than he does, or even that he knows as little as he does. Everyone is benefited by the opposite implication, and the public will always follow the leader who comprehends this bit of psychology. There is always a happy medium between shooting over the public's head and shooting too far under it.

Bok's psychology was simple. Come down to the level which the public sets and it will leave you at the moment you do it. It always expects of its leaders that they shall keep a notch above or a step ahead. The American public always wants something a little better than it asks for.

The Philadelphian led the way in introducing personal service in many departments in his magazine. Various departments gave advice and information. It was this comprehensive personal service, built up back of the magazine from the start, that gave the periodical so firm and unique a hold upon its clientele. It was not the printed word that was its chief power; scores of editors who have tried to study and diagnose the appeal of Bok's magazine from the printed page have remained baffled at the remarkable confidence elicited from its readers. They (the investigators) never looked back of the magazine and therefore failed to discover its secret.

Bok mentioned James G. Blaine's secret in cultivating memory. Memorizing is simply association of ideas. You associate a fact or an incident with a name and you remember the name. It never leaves you.

And here is Bok's creed good for all editors to apply and use. No man has a right to leave the world no better than he found it. He must add something to it; either he must make its people better and happier, or he must make the face of the world fairer to look at. And the one really means the other.

New Kind of Trouble Shooter

THERE are trouble shooters of various kinds, but the latest one applies to chickens and turkeys.

A man giving the name of R. Weiss and his address as 1011 18th Avenue Southeast, Minneapolis, is reported to be representing himself as a "trouble shooter" for chickens and turkeys for the Department of Agriculture, University of Minnesota, and is selling what he says is a poultry tonic.

The Department of Agriculture of the University employs no such man and knows nothing about him. Farmers and poultry raisers are, therefore, warned to be on their guard against anyone representing himself as connected with the university and offering something for sale. The University Department of Agriculture peddles no wares of any kind.

The case referred to was reported to University Farm from Ogilvie, Minn., where a farmer's young turkeys were dying, apparently of blackleg. The man said the trouble was worms and recommended his tonic as a preventive. Farmers having trouble of this kind should report directly to the Extension Division, University Farm, St. Paul, and such information as is available will be given them at once.

Higher Gas Taxes

TEN states have increased their gasoline tax this year. The increases are as follows: Arizona, 4 to 5; Arkansas, 5 to 6; Maine, 4 to 5; Massachusetts, 2 to 3; North Carolina, 5 to 6; North Dakota, 3 to 4 (suspended pending referendum election); Oklahoma, 4 to 5; Utah, 3 1-2 to 4; Washington, 3 to 5; Wisconsin, 2 to 4.

With the recent increases there are now five states that have a 6 cent gasoline tax, 12 with a 5 cent tax, eighteen with a 4 cent tax; nine with a 3 cent tax, and four states and the District of Columbia with a 2 cent tax. The 5 cent tax is universal in the Canadian provinces.

In the compilation of this data by the highway department it would be interesting if the cost of gasoline were also indicated. Some states with a high gas tax get their gasoline supplies at cheaper prices than Minnesota and other states. High tax added to cheap gas is not as hard to bear as high tax plus high cost of gasoline.

No Standing Rewards

NEITHER city nor county have standing rewards for the recovery of drowned persons. The only rewards come by special action of city or county, or by the action of relatives.

City and county authorities are always active in the search for bodies and should be promptly notified in cases of mishaps in their jurisdictions.

J. EDWIN MURPHY of the Baltimore Evening Sun, writing in "Editor and Publisher," says that "We consider Henry Doherty's attempt to have the Kansas City Star barred from the mails to be ridiculous. Suppression by job-holders of a newspaper fighting for a community's benefit is too absurd to be considered."

IT has been proven by statistics that any depression is followed by prosperous times. The longer any depression lasts the longer the good times that follow. The deeper the depression, the higher the consequent good times go.

IF the wife laughs at your jokes you can be sure either that you know some good ones or you have a good wife, says the Los Angeles Times.

JUNE brought a satisfying amount of moisture, about four inches or more, and benefited the farmers as well as the lake region.

2 FALSE TEETH BRING DEATH TO PRIVATE NELSON

PRONGS OF BRIDGEWORK PIERCED ESOPHAGUS OF SOLDIER

Washington, July 14.—(UP)—Two false teeth which he swallowed at breakfast three days ago brought death today to Private Olaf Nelson of Fort Bliss, Tex.

Nelson, a husky soldier 30 years old, was brought to Walter Reed hospital here yesterday after a cross-country dash in an airplane ambulance. Surgeons labored over him last night as long as his ebbing strength would permit. They were unable to remove the bridgework, only an inch and a half long. Four previous efforts at Fort Bliss had been unsuccessful.

Prongs of the bridgework had pierced Nelson's esophagus, the delicate passage to the stomach. Pressure of the obstruction, combined with throat disturbances created by admission of air through the punctures, slowly choked his life away. He died just before 7 a. m.

All the resources of the army medical service were marshalled in efforts to save the buck private.

The bridgework became lodged in Nelson's throat last Saturday morning. He was brought here in an ambulance airplane yesterday after four unsuccessful attempts to remove the obstruction.

Late last night surgeons labored over him again for two hours. They worked until Nelson's fast-ebbing strength was nearly exhausted. Then they announced that they would try to revive him with liquid nourishment for a further operation in a day or two.

The bridgework was lodged crosswise in Nelson's esophagus, the passage to the stomach. Its sharp prongs have punctured the delicate walls of that organ. It pressed against his wind-pipe, choking him.

"I'm all right," Nelson said like a good soldier when he was lifted into an ambulance after the 2,300-mile flight from Fort Bliss. And at that time his condition seemed fairly good. At the hospital he was x-rayed and placed in a room with another patient.

Nelson asked for water at once and continued to plead for it in a choking voice. But the nurses could only give him bits of ice to ease his thirst. It was feared he would gulp down the water if it were given to him and thus aggravate the condition in his throat.

In a few hours, Nelson's condition grew worse. It was decided to give him oxygen. Doctors, nurses and orderlies hurried about. The oxygen tanks were brought in and a small amount administered.

Major Roy Brown, acting chief of the eye, nose and throat clinic at the hospital, was recalled from his home. He and Hargrave examined the patient again and determined to try at once to remove the bridgework—the fifth attempt since Saturday.

Brown and Hargrave worked for two hours to dislodge the false teeth, using forceps and various other instruments. They could reach the obstruction easily, but they could not unhook the prongs from the flesh. It was explained that if the teeth were removed forcibly, the results would be fatal.

Spider's Presence a Benefit

Spiders are not produced from dirt or by hot climates. All species are carnivorous, eating insects and other spiders, and they are likely to be found wherever their insect prey may be caught. When they enter a home or building, they do so for the purpose of cleaning out flies and other insects.

Dave Ordway finds love and adventure when his plane crashes in the orange groves owned by beautiful Joan Marbury. He loves Joan but her reserve is impenetrable. Her cousin, Sally, however, is obviously in love with Dave. Gerry Flemming, Talbot Henderson and Barbara Holworthy, Dave's former fiancee, visit him. Barbara is hostile toward the girls. Under cover of darkness, Dave leaves, with Gerry and Talbot, to even a score against Mueller, neighboring plantation owner, who, in reality, is Snatch Cazzoni, a bootlegger. Mueller tried to force his attentions upon Joan and also robbed Dave and destroyed his plane. Planning to steal Mueller's plane to replace Dave's, the boys come upon a hangar containing four planes, and also discover a liquor-cutting plant. Figures loom in the darkness. Dave grapples with the nearest one. It is Joan. Unable to resist, they kiss. Heedless of danger, the girls had followed but are ordered back. On the way, Barbara, in revenge, pretends to hear Dave calling Joan. Joan goes back in search of him accompanied only by her colored mammy. Mueller finds them.

CHAPTER XXVI.

"WHY, hello, sweetie!"

"Where's your swell boy friends now?" he mocked.

The searchlight swivelled away. The gunman who had been standing beside his chief stepped aside. Joan could now see Mueller's swarthy face. There were glistening drops of sweat on his forehead and on his upper lip. His mouth was drawn back into a tight-lipped grin. His beady eyes squinted down into hers.

Generous Offer.

"What's the idea, sweetie?" he panted. "You're going to be nice to me and I'm going to make it up to you, see? You can have anything you want. I'm rich, see?"

"If you don't let me alone," Joan gasped, "Mr. Ordway will come and kill you!"

"Oh, so you're sweet on that punk, yeah?" he scoffed. "He can't even hold that green-eyed broad, he can't. She give him the air, didn't she? And didn't you see the come-on look she give me in your dining room? Don't waste your time on a guy like that baby. You and me'll get along fine."

There was a queer scrambling sound from the darkness of the floor. Hannah, plunging forward on her hands and knees, threw herself at Mueller's legs with a cry that was more animal-like than human. He staggered and cursed.

"Get away from me, you black hell-cat!" he yelled.

Hannah's ponderous arms rose and encircled his body. She began to pull herself to her feet, using his writhing torso for leverage to hand her tremendous weight upright. Mueller hammered down at her face with his clenched fist, screaming obscenities at her.

The other gunman leaped at her, grabbing a handful of her black hair and trying to jerk her away from Mueller. Joan, who had raced toward the door, stopped abruptly, turned, and was at the two men like a silent fury. She placed her two hands around the guard's face and clawed with her fingernails, trying to reach his eyes.

Hannah fell heavily. The guard, twisting away from Joan's tearing hands, spun around on his heel, stepped forward and kicked Hannah in the stomach. Mueller grasped Joan's wrists and held them helpless. The guard kicked Hannah again. The negress screamed, pushed herself to her feet and shambled out of the room at a weird half-trot, waving her black fists wildly about her head.

Mueller swung Joan around to face him.

"Come on, you little spit-fire," he panted, "you'll be going with me, now."

Futile Resistance.

"I won't go with you," Joan sobbed. "Mr. Ordway is coming and he'll tear you into little pieces."

"Oh, yeah?" he sneered. "Well, let him come. I been aching to bounce him off ever since I first seen him. But you're going along with me, baby, whether you want to or not. By the time I get through with you, you'll listen to reason, see? And if your dude friend is coming, he'll have to be coming pronto, see, because you and me are going to go where he can't sic the bulls on us. We're going to take a nice little plane ride."

He stooped swiftly. His arms went around her waist. She clawed at him with her hands, but he pressed his sweaty face into her shoulder, protecting it from her sharp nails.

"Flash that light on the stairs, Pete," he grunted. "When we get outside you lam ahead and tell Sime to crank up the amphibian and be ready to get away in a heck of a hurry."

"I don't blame you at all for loving this place, Miss Sally," said Talbot, gazing from the windows. "After coming back from those abandoned houses, this seems like a haven of refuge."

"But I don't love it," declared Sally, vehemently. "I hate it, every bit of it. I wish it would burn down. I wish I could never see it again in all my life!"

Talbot looked at her thoughtfully, then at Barbara. But Barbara's face was averted. If she had been listening, she made no sign.

"You've been under a strain, Sally," Talbot said gently. "Everything will be all right now. When we know that Dave has made a getaway in one of the planes, we'll all drive over to St. Petersburg and take a little cruise while the police get to work making a Christian out of Mueller. They'll drive him out of the State."

"I wish he'd take me with him!" Sally burst out.

"If you really hate the place as badly as that," said Talbot, with a seriousness that was new to him, "I don't see why something couldn't be done about it. I—"

She whirled a porch chair around to face the road and dropped herself into it, lighting a cigarette with trembling hands.

She stared at him through the darkness.

"You don't understand," she said, simply. "Joan and I haven't enough money to go anywhere—anywhere! We won't even be able to buy a new frock apiece until our fruit goes to the packing house. With next year's crop we may be able to pay off some more of the mortgage. The year after that we may be able to sell the plantation, if the banks have stopped going bankrupt and the fruit fly doesn't come into this section and the market in Wall Street goes up so that people have money to spend."

She flicked her quarter-consumed cigarette out into the darkness and began to pace back and forth across the wide verandah. Then, abruptly, she went into the house, slamming the screen door behind her.

Guilty Conscience.

"Poor old Babs," chuckled Talbot. "She has the shakes. Too much exercise, I guess, and the strain of dressing for dinner without two or three maids to hand her things."

"It isn't that," said Sally, not unkindly. "Those terrible houses at Cathay are enough to upset her. They gave me the creeps, too. Oh, Talbot, I wish you could have seen this place before the boom ended. It was lovely. I didn't hate it then. It was the most beautiful place in the world."

"All it needs," said Talbot, slowly, "are a few decent people around and a few houses that are living instead of dead. There's a fascination about it that even I can feel, and I'll confess that I'm one of those birds who take pretty kindly to luxury and civilization. A little money would take most of the rough edges off this country. Open up and repair some of those houses at Cathay, get a few cars running loose around the road and you'd have a different country here."

Barbara appeared at the screen door.

"Did I hear Gerry's car?" she demanded tensely.

Barbara scratched a match against the screening. The fragile stick snapped under the pressure. Impatiently she opened the door and threw the unlighted cigarette out on to the lawn. She turned back into the house.

Bok's Contributions as an Editor

READING the autobiography of Edward Bok one gets a clear view of the many sides and activities of a real editor. Edward Bok and every other public spirited editor is a Rotarian by instinct and practice, though he may not belong to a service club.

Bok came of a Dutch family that believed in making the world a bit more beautiful and better because they had been in it.

Bok's view of the editor of a magazine compares favorably with that of the editor of a newspaper. Bok saw that the average popular magazine of his day failed of large success because it wrote down to the public. No one wants to be told, either directly or indirectly, that he knows less than he does, or even that he knows as little as he does. Everyone is benefited by the opposite implication, and the public will always follow the leader who comprehends this bit of psychology. There is always a happy medium between shooting over the public's head and shooting too far under it.

Bok's psychology was simple. Come down to the level which the public sets and it will leave you at the moment you do it. It always expects of its leaders that they shall keep a notch above or a step ahead. The American public always wants something a little better than it asks for.

The Philadelphian led the way in introducing personal service in many departments in his magazine. Various departments gave advice and information. It was this comprehensive personal service, built up back of the magazine from the start, that gave the periodical so firm and unique a hold upon its clientele. It was not the printed word that was its chief power; scores of editors who have tried to study and diagnose the appeal of Bok's magazine from the printed page have remained baffled at the remarkable confidence elicited from its readers. They (the investigators) never looked back of the magazine and therefore failed to discover its secret.

Bok mentioned James G. Blaine's secret in cultivating memory. Memorizing is simply association of ideas. You associate a fact or an incident with a name and you remember the name. It never leaves you.

And here is Bok's creed good for all editors to apply and use. No man has a right to leave the world no better than he found it. He must add something to it; either he must make its people better and happier, or he must make the face of the world fairer to look at. And the one really means the other.

New Kind of Trouble Shooter

THERE are trouble shooters of various kinds, but the latest one applies to chickens and turkeys.

A man giving the name of R. Weiss and his address as 1011 18th Avenue Southeast, Minneapolis, is reported to be representing himself as a "trouble shooter" for chickens and turkeys for the Department of Agriculture, University of Minnesota, and is selling what he says is a poultry tonic.

The Department of Agriculture of the University employs no such man and knows nothing about him. Farmers and poultry raisers are, therefore, warned to be on their guard against anyone representing himself as connected with the university and offering something for sale. The University Department of Agriculture peddles no wares of any kind.

The case referred to was reported to University Farm from Ogilvie, Minn., where a farmer's young turkeys were dying, apparently of blackleg. The man said the trouble was worms and recommended his tonic as a preventive. Farmers having trouble of this kind should report directly to the Extension Division, University Farm, St. Paul, and such information as is available will be given them at once.

Higher Gas Taxes

TEN states have increased their gasoline tax this year. The increases are as follows: Arizona, 4 to 5; Arkansas, 5 to 6; Maine, 4 to 5; Massachusetts, 2 to 3; North Carolina, 5 to 6; North Dakota, 3 to 4 (suspended pending referendum election); Oklahoma, 4 to 5; Utah, 3 1-2 to 4; Washington, 3 to 5; Wisconsin, 2 to 4.

With the recent increases there are now five states that have a 6 cent gasoline tax, 12 with a 5 cent tax, eighteen with a 4 cent tax; nine with a 3 cent tax, and four states and the District of Columbia with a 2 cent tax. The 5 cent tax is universal in the Canadian provinces.

In the compilation of this data by the highway department it would be interesting if the cost of gasoline were also indicated. Some states with a high gas tax get their gasoline supplies at cheaper prices than Minnesota and other states. High tax added to cheap gas is not as hard to bear as high tax plus high cost of gasoline.

No Standing Rewards

NEITHER city nor county have standing rewards for the recovery of drowned persons. The only rewards come by special action of city or county, or by the action of relatives.

City and county authorities are always active in the search for bodies and should be promptly notified in cases of mishaps in their jurisdictions.

J. EDWIN MURPHY of the Baltimore Evening Sun, writing in "Editor and Publisher," says that "We consider Henry Doherty's attempt to have the Kansas City Star barred from the mails to be ridiculous. Suppression by job-holders of a newspaper fighting for a community's benefit is too absurd to be considered."

IT has been proven by statistics that any depression is followed by prosperous times. The longer any depression lasts the longer the good times that follow. The deeper the depression, the higher the consequent good times go.

2 FALSE TEETH BRING DEATH TO PRIVATE NELSON

PRONGS OF BRIDGEWORK PIERCED ESOPHAGUS OF SOLDIER

Washington, July 14.—(U.P.)—Two false teeth which he swallowed at breakfast three days ago brought death today to Private Olaf Nelson of Fort Bliss, Tex.

Nelson, a husky soldier 30 years old, was brought to Walter Reed hospital here yesterday after a cross-country dash in an airplane ambulance. Surgeons labored over him last night as long as his ebbing strength would permit. They were unable to remove the bridgework, only an inch and a half long. Four previous efforts at Fort Bliss had been unsuccessful.

Prongs of the bridgework had pierced Nelson's esophagus, the delicate passage to the stomach. Pressure of the obstruction, combined with throat disturbances created by admission of air through the punctures, slowly choked his life away. He died just before 7 a. m.

All the resources of the army medical service were marshalled in efforts to save the buck private.

The bridgework became lodged in Nelson's throat last Saturday morning. He was brought here in an ambulance airplane yesterday after four unsuccessful attempts to remove the obstruction.

Late last night surgeons labored over him again for two hours. They worked until Nelson's fast-ebbing strength was nearly exhausted. Then they announced that they would try to revive him with liquid nourishment for a further operation in a day or two.

The bridgework was lodged crosswise in Nelson's esophagus, the passage to the stomach. Its sharp prongs have punctured the delicate walls of that organ. It pressed against his wind-pipe, choking him.

"I'm all right," Nelson said like a good soldier when he was lifted into an ambulance after the 2,300-mile flight from Fort Bliss. And at that time his condition seemed fairly good. At the hospital he was x-rayed and placed in a room with another patient.

Nelson asked for water at once and continued to plead for it in a choking voice. But the nurses could only give him bits of ice to ease his thirst. It was feared he would gulp down the water if it were given to him and thus aggravate the condition in his throat.

In a few hours, Nelson's condition grew worse. It was decided to give him oxygen. Doctors, nurses and orderlies hurried about. The oxygen tanks were brought in and a small amount administered.

Major Roy Brown, acting chief of the eye, nose and throat clinic at the hospital, was recalled from his home. He and Hargrave examined the patient again and determined to try at once to remove the bridgework—the fifth attempt since Saturday.

Brown and Hargrave worked for two hours to dislodge the false teeth, using forceps and other instruments. They could reach the obstruction easily, but they could not unhook the prongs from the flesh. It was explained that if the teeth were removed forcibly, the results would be fatal.

Spider's Presence a Benefit

Spiders are not produced from dirt or by hot climates. All species are carnivorous, eating insects and other spiders, and they are likely to be found wherever their insect prey may be caught. When they enter a home or building, they do so for the purpose of cleaning out flies and other insects.

Dave Ordway finds love and adventure when his plane crashes in the orange groves owned by beautiful Joan Marbury. He loves Joan but her reserve is impenetrable. Her cousin, Sally, however, is obviously in love with Dave. Gerry Flemming, Talbot Henderson and Barbara Holworthy, Dave's former fiancee, visit him. Barbara is hostile toward the girls. Under cover of darkness, Dave leaves, with Gerry and Talbot, to even a score against Mueller, neighboring plantation owner, who, in reality, is Snatch Cazzoni, a bootlegger. Mueller tried to force his attentions upon Joan and also robbed Dave and destroyed his plane. Planning to steal Mueller's plane to replace Dave's, the boys come upon a hangar containing four planes, and also discover a liquor-cutting plant. Figures loom in the darkness. Dave grapples with the nearest one. It is Joan. Unable to resist, they kiss. Heedless of danger, the girls had followed but are ordered back. On the way, Barbara, in revenge, pretends to hear Dave calling Joan. Joan goes back in search of him accompanied only by her colored mammy. Mueller finds them.

CHAPTER XXVI.

"WHY, hello, sweetie!"

"Where's your swell boy friends now?" he mocked.

The searchlight swivelled away. The gunman who had been standing beside his chief stepped aside. Joan could now see Mueller's swarthy face. There were glistening drops of sweat on his forehead and on his upper lip. His mouth was drawn back into a tight-lipped grin. His beady eyes squinted down into hers.

Generous Offer.

"What's the idea, sweetie?" he panted. "You're going to be nice to me and I'm going to make it up to you, see? You can have anything you want. I'm rich, see?"

"If you don't let me alone," Joan gasped, "Mr. Ordway will come and kill you!"

"Oh, so you're sweet on that punk, yeah?" he scoffed. "He can't even hold that green-eyed broad, he can't. She give him the air, didn't she? And didn't you see the come-on look she give me in your dining room? Don't waste your time on a guy like that baby. You and me'll get along fine."

There was a queer scrambling sound from the darkness of the floor. Hannah, plunging forward on her hands and knees, threw herself at Mueller's legs with a cry that was more animal-like than human. He staggered and cursed.

"Get away from me, you black hell-cat!" he yelled.

Hannah's ponderous arms rose and encircled his body. She began to pull herself to her feet, using his writhing torso for leverage to hold her tremendous weight upright. Mueller hammered down at her face with his clenched fist, screaming obscenities at her.

The other gunman leaped at her, grabbing a handful of her black hair and trying to jerk her away from Mueller. Joan, who had raced toward the door, stopped abruptly, turned, and was at the two men like a silent fury. She placed her two hands around the guard's face and clawed with her fingernails, trying to reach his eyes.

Hannah fell heavily. The guard, twisting away from Joan's tearing hands, spun around on his heel, stepped forward and kicked Hannah in the stomach. Mueller grasped Joan's wrists and held them helpless. The guard kicked Hannah again. The negress screamed, pushed herself to her feet and shambled out of the room at a weird half-trot, waving her black fists wildly about her head.

Mueller swung Joan around to face him.

"Come on, you little spit-fire," he panted, "you'll be going with me, now."

Futile Resistance.

"I won't go with you," Joan sobbed. "Mr. Ordway is coming and he'll tear you into little pieces."

"Oh, yeah?" he sneered. "Well, let him come. I been aching to bounce him off ever since I first seen him. But you're going along with me, baby, whether you want to or not. By the time I get through with you, you'll listen to reason, see? And if your dude friend is coming, he'll have to be coming pronto, see, because you and me are going to go where he can't sic the bulls on us. We're going to take a nice little plane ride."

He stooped swiftly. His arms went around her waist. She clawed at him with her hands, but he pressed his sweaty face into her shoulder, protecting it from her sharp nails.

"Flash that light on the stairs, Pete," he grunted. "When we get outside you lam ahead and tell Sime to crank up the amphibian and be ready to get away in a heck of a hurry."

* * *

"I don't blame you at all for loving this place, Miss Sally," said Talbot, gazing from the windows. "After coming back from those abandoned houses, this seems like a haven of refuge."

"But I don't love it," declared Sally, vehemently. "I hate it, every bit of it. I wish it would burn down. I wish I could never see it again in all my life!"

Talbot looked at her thoughtfully, then at Barbara. But Barbara's face was averted. If she had been listening, she made no sign.

"You've been under a strain, Sally," Talbot said gently. "Everything will be all right now. When we know that Dave has made a getaway in one of the planes, we'll all drive over to St. Petersburg and take a little cruise while the police get to work making a Christian out of Mueller. They'll drive him out of the State."

"I wish he'd take me with him!" Sally burst out.

"If you really hate the place as badly as that," said Talbot, with a seriousness that was new to him, "I don't see why something couldn't be done about it. I—"

She whirled a porch chair around to face the road and dropped herself into it, lighting a cigarette with trembling hands.

She stared at him through the darkness.

"You don't understand," she said, simply. "Joan and I haven't enough money to go anywhere—anywhere! We won't even be able to buy a new frock apiece until our fruit goes to the packing house. With next year's crop we may be able to pay off some more of the mortgage. The year after that we may be able to sell the plantation, if the banks have stopped going bankrupt and the fruit fly doesn't come into this section and the market in Wall Street goes up so that people have money to spend."

"Gerry ought to be here by now," Barbara complained petulantly.

She flicked her quarter-consumed cigarette out into the darkness and began to pace back and forth across the wide verandah. Then, abruptly, she went into the house, slamming the screen door behind her.

Guilty Conscience.

"Poor old Babs," chuckled Talbot. "She has the shakes. Too much exercise, I guess, and the strain of dressing for dinner without two or three maids to hand her things."

"It isn't that," said Sally, not unkindly. "Those terrible houses at Cathay are enough to upset her. They gave me the creeps, too. Oh, Talbot, I wish you could have seen this place before the boom ended. It was lovely. I didn't hate it then. It was the most beautiful place in the world."

"All it needs," said Talbot, slowly, "are a few decent people around and a few houses that are living instead of dead. There's a fascination about it that even I can feel, and I'll confess that I'm one of those birds who take pretty kindly to luxury and civilization. A little money would take most of the rough edges off this country. Open up and repair some of those houses at Cathay, get a few cars running loose around the road and you'd have a different country here."

Barbara appeared at the screen door.

"Did I hear Gerry's car?" she demanded tensely.

Barbara scratched a match against the screening. The fragile stick snapped under the pressure. Impatiently she opened the door and threw the unlighted cigarette out on to the lawn. She turned back into the house.

CLARA BOW'S HAIR NOT RED, BUT CHESTNUT

FIRST DYED IT HIDEOUS BLACK, THEN DARK RED, THEN BLOND, NOW NATURAL

By GEORGE H. BEALE
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Hollywood, July 14.—(U.P.)—The secret is out, gentlemen, Clara Bow's hair is a chestnut color.

My yes, and you are supposed to be surprised, for all this time you thought it was red, or black, or silver, or blond, or whatever color suited her fancy at any given time.

But today, after eight years or more experimentation with dyes the actress put on a private exhibition designed to show her locks in their true colors.

And in the sun it actually turned out that her hair is that auburn shade, with just enough red in it to turn it to chestnut.

"I'm a bit surprised with it, my self," Clara said. "You see, I'd really forgotten what it looked like. As I remembered it was a bit lighter than it is now.

"I started dying it when I was about 16 years old, and trying to break into pictures. Ever since that its been some color or other until I started resting after my last illness. I've been letting it come in natural since then."

Clara said she first dyed it a "hideous black."

'Later, when I came to Hollywood, it was red and I kept it some shade of red almost continuously while I was under contract to Paramount," she said. "It ran from orange to dark red. I turned it blonde when I decided to take a long rest. Now it is its right color."

Miss Bow is in Hollywood temporarily to have some dental work done. She expects to be here about two weeks, after which she will return to the ranch owned by Rex Bell, her present fiance.

She now weights 125 pounds, whereas her best camera weight is 115 pounds. Nobody is to worry about this, however, she said.

Miss Bow has few plans for the future save that she intends to write the "true story" of her life, to go back into motion pictures "about October" and to build on the ranch a house with modern plumbing and all that, you know. "The present ranch shack lacks "modern plumbing and all that."

The actress said she had received several offers for stage and vaudeville performances as well as the pictures. She will stick to pictures, however, and expects to sign a contract that will require her to do only two pictures a year.

On guard throughout the conversation was Diablo, a very young and very black water spaniel who seemed to object strenuously to the cuff of a pair of white flannel trousers.

"Don't mind him," said Clara, reassuringly, "he can't bite very hard because his teeth are not long enough. You see his name is Diablo, which means devil, but I call him Blackie."

This explanation didn't seem to make much sense, but the matter was dropped there and Diablo stopped worrying the trousers after a playful kick on the nose.

Housewives gathered before many municipal savings banks, calling for their deposits.

"Wir Muessen Geld Haben; Wir Brauchen Brot," they called.

"We Must Have Money; We Need Bread."

The United Press correspondent, witness of a scene like this before one of the banks, saw a bank official come out of the barred doors.

The women besieged him with frantic appeals to get money out of the "Sparkasse" (savings department). He calmed them, telling them that even the officials were in a similar predicament.

"My wife is in the same fix as you," he said. "She's almost desperate because she can't buy food and groceries."

Meantime, the cabinet considered a proposal for intrdouction of a purely domestic currency, like clearing house certificates, supplanting the mark for internal use. It was believed designed to prevent marks from going abroad, and to prevent inflation such as marked the violent collapse of currency after the world war.

The situation was aggravated by news from central Europe, showing that the financial stringency was spreading eastward. In Hungary all banks were closed, and there were isolated closings in Austria, Roumania and Switzerland.

Communist agitators found the situation ripe for their work. Ruhr miners and steel workers were harangued by agitators, and the communist newspaper published scareheads, warning laborers that "your wages are endangered."

At the pitheads in the Ruhr, the district where French troops about 10 year ago put into effect a strict occupation to force Germany to terms, agitators told workers their wages would not be paid.

The provocateurs urged the men to strike against the government and its emergency decrees.

Revolutionary trade unions in the region summoned special meetings of the so-called Kampf (fight or battle) commmittees for Wednesday to declare that the time is ripening for a revolution.

Munich, Germany, July 14—(U.P.)—Adolph Hitler, fiery fascist leader declared himself ready today to seize power, by force if necessary, to save Germany from Bolshevism.

Hitler told the United Press correspondent in an exclusive interview on the present financial chaos that the people rapidly were becoming frantic and ready for any experiment in an effort to save themselves from ruin. He said bolshevism and other forms of violence were inevitable unless the tenents of fascism were followed under the guidance of his party.

"We are ready to assume governmental power at any time," Hitler said, "because the national opposition is convinced that it alone is able to halt the extremist development.

"The Young plan is ending in economic disaster. Its consequences also will be felt in the entire world outside Germany. The folly of the Versailles treaty, which was made to divide the world in two parts for our future, will prove the curse of mankind as a whole.

"For the most serious danger is not economic disaster but bolshevization as the consequence of general economic ruin."

Hitler said there were "only two possibilities for the future," "these possibilities are either our movement for power over bolshevism, or bolshevism. The second choice will turn central Europe and possibly the world into chaos.

"Whenever fate calls us to the helm, we shall not believe in the possibility of paying political tribute. But we do believe in the necessity of fulfilling those purely economic obligations which Germany has assumed in the course of years.

"It will be our foremost aim to secure the general economic and political consolidation of Germany, even by the harshest measures. However, first of all our watchword is to stamp out bolshevism in all its forms."

HONEYMOON IS TURNED INTO A DEATH VIGIL

RUDY VALLEE SUDDENLY CALLED TO BEDSIDE OF HIS DYING MOTHER

COMPLICATIONS CAUSE A RELAPSE, MRS. KATHERINE L. VALLEE SINKING FAST

Westbrook, Maine, July 14—(U.P.)—Rudy Vallee, whose soft-voiced radio croonings have endeared him to millions, today had turned a honeymoon with his bride of the week at Atlantic City into a death vigil with other members of his family at the bedside of his mother.

He made a hurried trip here by airplane from New York immediately after receiving word of his mother's condition.

Complications which developed shortly after Vallee arrived made it extremely doubtful, doctors said, that Mrs. Katherine L. Vallee, 61, could survive the day.

Shortly after 6 a. m., Charles A. Vallee, retired druggist and father of the radio star, told the United Press:

"Mrs. Vallee suffered a relapse about 11 o'clock last night. Complications which have set in make it extremely doubtful if she will live through the day. She is still alive but her condition is very critical."

Appraised by telegram yesterday of his mother's condition, Rudy cancelled his radio and orchestra engagements and chartered an airplane. He said goodbye to his bride of a week and started for home, bringing along his younger brother, William.

Rudy's first words, when he met his father, Charles A. Vallee, on the porch of their home, were:

"How is mother? Are we too late?"

The elder Vallee silently escorted the sons to their mother's bed room. He leaned over the bed and said softly:

"This is pop. Do you know me?"

Mrs. Vallee smiled and nodded.

"The boys are here, mom. They've come to see you."

The mother's face brightened as she turned her head slightly and saw her sons.

"Do you know tnem?" her husband asked.

"Yes," pointing, "there is Hubert, and there is William."

Hubert—Rudy to millions of radio fans—stood with head bowed, tears lining his cheeks. Then brothers kneeled by the bedside and the mother patted their heads. They stayed there 10 minutes.

CLARA BOW'S HAIR NOT RED, BUT CHESTNUT

By GEORGE H. BEALE
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Hollywood, July 14.—(U.P.)—The secret is out, gentlemen, Clara Bow's hair is a chestnut color.

My yes, and you are supposed to be surprised, for all this time you thought it was red, or black, or silver, or blond, or whatever color suited her fancy at any given time.

But today, after eight years or more experimentation with dyes the actress put on a private exhibition designed to show her locks in their true colors.

And in the sun it actually turned out that her hair is that auburn shade, with just enough red in it to turn it to chestnut.

"I'm a bit surprised with it, my self," Clara said. "You see, I'd really forgotten what it looked like. As I remembered it was a bit lighter than it is now.

"I started dying it when I was about 16 years old, and trying to break into pictures. Ever since that its been some color or other until I started resting after my last illness. I've been letting it come in natural since then."

Clara said she first dyed it a "hideous black."

'Later, when I came to Hollywood, it was red and I kept it some shade of red almost continuously while I was under contract to Paramount," she said. "It ran from orange to dark red. I turned it blonde when I decided to take a long rest. Now it is its right color."

Miss Bow is in Hollywood temporarily to have some dental work done. She expects to be here about two weeks, after which she will return to the ranch owned by Rex Bell, her present fiance.

She now weights 125 pounds, whereas her best camera weight is 115 pounds. Nobody is to worry about this, however, she said.

Miss Bow has few plans for the future save that she intends to write the "true story" of her life, to go back into motion pictures "about October" and to build on the ranch a house with modern plumbing and all that, you know. "The present ranch shack lacks "modern plumbing and all that."

The actress said she had received several offers for stage and vaudeville performances as well as the pictures. She will stick to pictures, however, and expects to sign a contract that will require her to do only two pictures a year.

On guard throughout the conversation was Diablo, a very young and very black water spaniel who seemed to object strenuously to the cuff of a pair of white flannel trousers.

"Don't mind him," said Clara, reassuringly, "he can't bite very hard because his teeth are not long enough. You see his name is Diablo, which means devil, but I call him Blackie."

This explanation didn't seem to make much sense, but the matter was dropped there and Diablo stopped worrying the trousers after a playful kick on the nose.

Mary Duncan, Leslie Howard and Marion Davies in her latest and best role from Fannie Hurst's great American novel, "Five and Ten," which will be seen at the Paramount Theatre Tuesday and Wednesday.

CHARGE RUTHLESS KILLING OF TREES

County Officials Complain to Pine River Telephone Co. of Destruction of Trees on Road

BEAUTY OF ROAD HARMED

Unsightly Debris Left on State Aid Road No. 7, Pine River East to Emily

County officials charged today that the Pine River Telephone Co. had undone the beauty of a road which the county intentionally hoped to maintain for the benefit of local citizens and tourists.

In a letter to the manager of the company at Pine River, oCunty Attorney Arthur J. Sullivan, expressed the opinion of County Highway Engineer Walter M. Murphy that destruction of trees on State Aid Road No. 7 by the telephone company was a ruthless form of destruction of beauty. The distance of the road where the alleged cutting took place is between six and seven miles, from Pine River to east to Emily.

"We have always aimed to preserve the beauty of our highways as much as possible. We remove trees from right of ways only when we find it is essential to do so. We are greatly disappointed in the destruction of birches, oaks and other trees and left in unsightly debris on S. A. Road No 7. The county attorney has written a letter to Mr. Gardener, manager of the telephone company at Pine River calling his attention to the cutting of the trees," Mr. Murphy said today.

Mr. Murphy simultaneously asked the cooperation of citizens in preserving trees along right of ways of highways and off the highways.

"Trees prove one of the greatest factors in attracting the tourists to our land. Let's retain the natural beauty of our woods and waters as long as we can," Mr. Murphy pleaded.

EXTENSIVE WHEAT CROP IS RUINED

RALPH BUDD REPORTS ON SECTION BETWEEN MINOT AND HAVRE

St. Paul, July 14.—(U.P.)—Ralph Budd, president of the Great Northern railway, returned today from a visit to the Pacific coast and announced the lack of moisture had ruined the wheat crop on the 420 miles section between Minot, N. D., and Havre, Mont.

"Crops from Minot toward the Twin Ctiies are in good condition," Budd said. "Late rainfall has made the western crops available as food for dairy and beef cattle, as these crops do not represent a total loss."

DISINTER BODY OF UNION SOLDIER

REMAINS OF E. D. McGILLIS TO BE REMOVED TO ROCK ISLAND CEMETERY FROM CROW WING

At the instigation of Representative Harold Knutson the condition of the graves of Union soldiers buried in the Catholic cemetery at Crow Wing, has been investigated, by the war department, and arrangements made for their proper care.

It appears there are four headstones of the type furnished by the government, only one of which is in place presumably at the grave and bearing the inscription "Ed D. McGillis, Co. C, 4th Minn. Inf." Instructions have been given to disinter the remains and remove them to the Rock Island national cemetery, Rock Island, Illinois.

Three other headstones were found lying flat on the ground not at the graves to which they belonged. An effort was made to determine the exact location of the graves of the three soldiers for which headstones were found, but without success.

The inscriptions on the headstones were "Fabian LeFebore, Co. G 9th Minn. Inf.", "Eustach Jourdon, Co. G, 9th Minn. Inf." and "Salem Aitken, Co. G. 9th Minn. Inf." If the graves of these Civil war veterans can be identified, it is proposed to remove the remains to the national cemetery at Rock Island.

STOCKS MOVE NARROWLY TODAY

INFLUENCED BY DULLNESS AT LONDON, WHERE PRICES ARE STEADY

By ELMER C. WALZER
(United Press Financial Editor)

New York, July 14—(U.P.)—Stocks moved narrowly today, influenced by dullness at London where prices held steady. Fractional gains and losses were about evenly divided.

Except for a 3-4 spurt in Steel common, there was little feature. Many traders apparently waited signs of economic improvement in Germany and other central European countries.

The main body of stocks was little affected by the firmness in steel common. Leaders held close to their previous levels.

Among the stronger issues were Johns-Manville, International Telephone, Bethlehem Steel, North American, Sinclair, American and Foreign Power and Dome Mines, all of which gained fractions to a point. Auburn Auto advanced a point to 173 1-2.

at a very low price★

The first time you drive a Pontiac you're due for a genuine surprise—especially if you have based your ideas on small cars costing just a little less. You'll find the whole "feel" of Pontiac different—it gives you a totally different kind of ride.

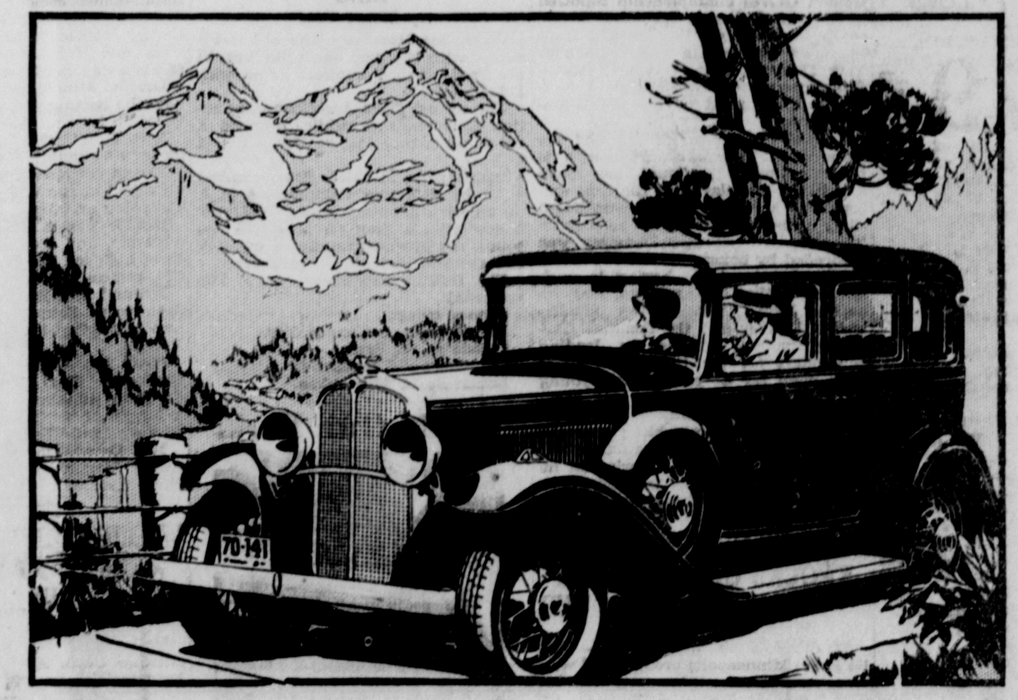

First is the feeling of power. You'll note pick-up, speed and a driving ease you never looked for at so low a price. If you like to get where you are going without being boxed in traffic or shifting too much on hills, you'll call Pontiac a performer after your own heart.

Then there's comfort—deep seats, flexible springs, four hydraulic shock absorbers and enough weight and length. And, even if you know little about mechanics, you'll readily see how rubber cushions at 43 points in Pontiac's chassis take up road shocks.

On sizzling summer days, and in wet weather, you'll marvel at how well Pontiac's insulated Fisher body shuts out heat and dampness. And when you run a critical eye over the interior fittings and finish, you'll see why Pontiac owners are so glad to have their friends ride with them . . . genuine mohair or whipcord upholstery, for one thing! (Fine leather in open models.)

The graceful body lines, the broad one-piece fenders with neat built-in fender lamps, the deep V-radiator with its chrome screen—these and many other fine-car features will help make you proud to own a Pontiac . . . an outstanding General Motors value. You'll like the very low price, too—for what a satisfaction it is to get so much more for your money!

EXTENSIVE WHEAT CROP IS RUINED

RALPH BUDD REPORTS ON SECTION BETWEEN MINOT AND HAVRE

St. Paul, July 14.—(UP)—Ralph Budd, president of the Great Northern railway, returned today from a visit to the Pacific coast and announced the lack of moisture had ruined the wheat crop on the 420 miles section between Minot, N. D., and Havre, Mont.

"Crops from Minot toward the Twin Ctiies are in good condition," Budd said. "Late rainfall has made the western crops available as food for dairy and beef cattle, as these crops do not represent a total loss."

DISINTER BODY OF UNION SOLDIER

At the instigation of Representative Harold Knutson the condition of the graves of Union soldiers buried in the Catholic cemetery at Crow Wing, has been investigated, by the war department, and arrangements made for their proper care.

It appears there are four headstones of the type furnished by the government, only one of which is in place presumably at the grave and bearing the inscription "Ed D. McGillis, Co. C, 4th Minn. Inf." Instructions have been given to disinter the remains and remove them to the Rock Island national cemetery, Rock Island, Illinois.

Three other headstones were found lying flat on the ground not at the graves to which they belonged. An effort was made to determine the exact location of the graves of the three soldiers for which headstones were found, but without success.

The inscriptions on the headstones were "Fabian LeFebore, Co. G 9th Minn. Inf.", "Eustach Jourdon, Co. G, 9th Minn. Inf." and "Salem Aitken, Co. G. 9th Minn. Inf." If the graves of these Civil war veterans can be identified, it is proposed to remove the remains to the national cemetery at Rock Island.

STOCKS MOVE NARROWLY TODAY

By ELMER C. WALZER
(United Press Financial Editor)

New York, July 14—(UP)—Stocks moved narrowly today, influenced by dullness at London where prices held steady. Fractional gains and losses were about evenly divided.

Except for a 3-4 spurt in Steel common, there was little feature. Many traders apparently waited signs of economic improvement in Germany and other central European countries.

The main body of stocks was little affected by the firmness in steel common. Leaders held close to their previous levels.

Among the stronger issues were Johns-Manville, International Telephone, Bethlehem Steel, North American, Sinclair, American and Foreign Power and Dome Mines, all of which gained fractions to a point. Auburn Auto advanced a point to 173 1-2.

So much more for your money
The quality you insist on—
at a very low price★

The first time you drive a Pontiac you're due for a genuine surprise—especially if you have based your ideas on small cars costing just a little less. You'll find the whole "feel" of Pontiac different—it gives you a totally different kind of ride.

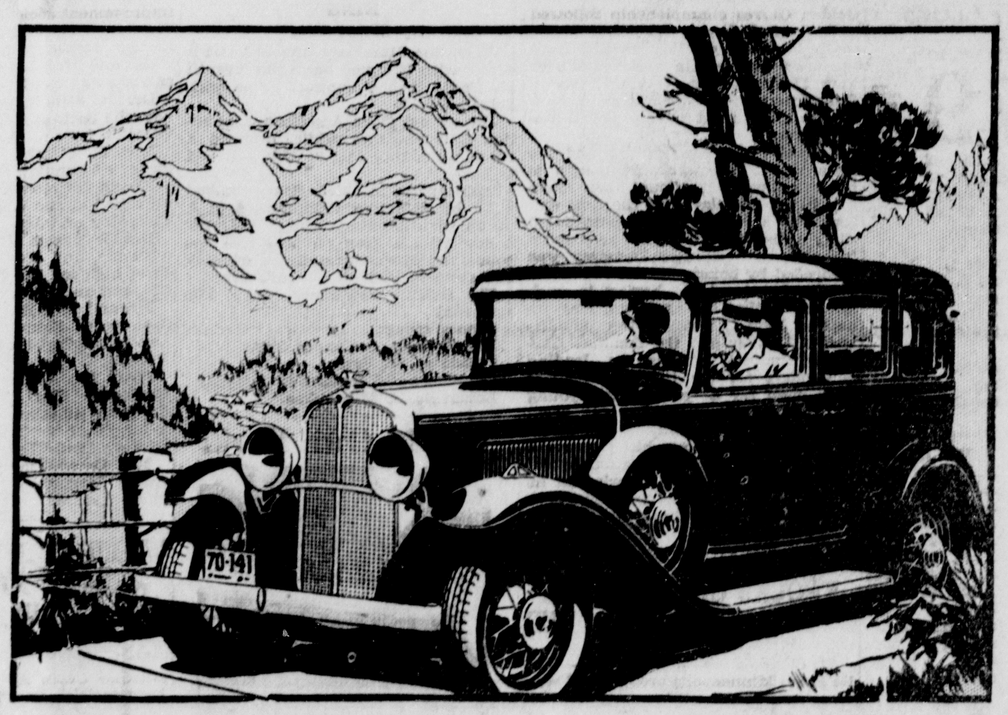

First is the feeling of power. You'll note pick-up, speed and a driving ease you never looked for at so low a price. If you like to get where you are going without being boxed in traffic or shifting too much on hills, you'll call Pontiac a performer after your own heart.

Then there's comfort—deep seats, flexible springs, four hydraulic shock absorbers and enough weight and length. And, even if you know little about mechanics, you'll readily see how rubber cushions at 43 points in Pontiac's chassis take up road shocks.

On sizzling summer days, and in wet weather, you'll marvel at how well Pontiac's insulated Fisher body shuts out heat and dampness. And when you run a critical eye over the interior fittings and finish, you'll see why Pontiac owners are so glad to have their friends ride with them . . . genuine mohair or whipcord upholstery, for one thing! (Fine leather in open models.)

The graceful body lines, the broad one-piece fenders with neat built-in fender lamps, the deep V-radiator with its chrome screen—these and many other fine-car features will help make you proud to own a Pontiac . . . an outstanding General Motors value. You'll like the very low price, too—for what a satisfaction it is to get so much more for your money!

Any Oakland-Pontiac dealer will arrange a demonstration at your convenience.

NEW YORK, BROOKLYN HAVE EYES ON FLAG

BEGIN SWING THROUGH WEST, HOPES AT STAKE

ROBINS BEGIN SIMILAR SERIES WITH ST. LOUIS, CURRENT PACE SETTERS

By LEO H. PETERSEN
(United Press Staff Correspnodent)

New York, July 14—(U.P.)—The east's contenders for the 1931 National league pennant—New York and Brooklyn—began a swing through the west today with their championship hopes at stake.

The second place Giants, four and one half games removed from the leadership, opened a four game series against the Chicago Cubs, holders of fourth place, while the Robins, a half contest behind their metropolitan rivals, began a similar series with St. Louis, current pace-setters.

Following the series with the Cubs the Giants will go to St. Louis and the Robins to Chicago. Those sixteen games between the two strongest clubs in the east and the two most formidable teams in the west may go a long way toward deciding the 1931 flag winner.

In order to stay in the running, both New York and Brooklyn will have to break even in their games against the Cardinals and Cubs and win a majority of their contests from Cincinnati and Pittsburgh before the road jaunt comes to a close. Prospects are none too bright for either the Robins or Giants for in their own ball parks the Cardinals and Cubs are about as tough as they come.

The Cardinals took advantage of Giants and Robins open dates yesterday by whipping the Cubs 12 to 5 and increasing their leadership to four and one half games. Burleigh Grimes, coasting under a big lead, came out in front under wraps. A seven-run attack in the fourth inning clinched the contest for St. Louis.

Philadelphia defeated Pittsburgh 1 to 0 in the other National league game. Don Hurst's double, scoring Klein who had singled, manufactured the winning run for the Phillies in the ninth. The contest was a pitching duel between Jumbo Elliott and Ray Kremer. Each allowed five hits.

Philadelphia retained its six game lead in the American league by dividing a double header with the Washington Senators, holders of second place. The Athletics won the first game 12 to 7 as Lefty Grove registered his 18th triumph of the season while Alvin Crowder pitched the Senators to a 6 to 4 decision in the nightcap.

The Senators pounded Grove right merrily in the opener but Grove's mates made the game a rout in the eighth inning when thye scored seven runs, four of them on a home run by Williams, a pinch hitter, with the bases loaded.

Crowder had little trouble in the second game while his mates piled up six runs off Rube Walberg in the first six innings.

No other games were scheduled in the American league.

CHARLEY RETZLAFF MEETS FICUCELLO, BROOKLYN TONIGHT

HAS KNOCKED OUT 32 OPPONENTS DURING BRIEF PROFESSIONAL CAREER

By DIXON STEWART
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

New York, July 14—(U.P.)—Charley Retzlaff, a 195-pound slugger who is storming through heavyweight ranks in a manner reminiscent of Jack Dempsey's climb to fame, will make his metropolitan debut tonight in a 10-round bout with Ralph Ficucello of Brooklyn, at Queensboro stadium.

The 23-year-old "Duluth Dynamiter" has blasted his way past 32 opponents during his brief professional career, knocking out 28 foes without suffering a single defeat. No less an authority that Max Schmeling picks Retzlaff as the next world's champion, and many shrewd boxing men concur in this estimate.

New York fans however are skeptical of reputations established in the "sticks" and are waiting to be shown. Memory of the two-round knockout suffered by Tuffy Griffiths, the last young Lockinvar to come out of the west, at the hands of the then unknown Jimmy Braddock still is fresh and Ficucello is receiving strong support as a 5 to 9 short ender in the betting.

Ficucello, a former national amateur champion, is a stiff puncher and once was regarded as a promising "comer." He will need all of his punching ability against Retzlaff and in addition will need an ability to withstand punishment, which he has not shown in previous matches.

Retzlaff still is a comparative novice although he has been boxing for five years. During the first three years he was kept under cover by his manager, canny Jack Hurley, and trained and boxed in private. A brief amateur career, featured by winnig of the Golden Gloves championship followed and Retzlaff began his professional career a year ago. He clicked from the start and boasts knockouts over Tom Heeney, Jack Gagnon, Marty Gallagher and George Neron in addition to a clean cut victory over Johnny Risko.

Retzlaff's punching ability and his style which like Jack Dempsey's is based entirely on offense, has made him highly popular with the fans and forecasts a return of the sensational slugging bouts which have been missing since the puncher Dempsey was succeeded by boxers.

With heavyweights boxing in such low estate that the aged and long inactive Jack Sharkey, the middleweight Walker and the freakish Carnera, command ranking as leading contenders for the title, the field is wide open for a sensational young slugger and Retzlaff has a great chance to blast his way to the championship. If he shows his true worth against Ficucello he is certain to get plenty of work in New York and he might easily battle his way into a title bout within another year.

Honolulu, July 14.—(U.P.)—Duster Crabbe, star Los Angeles swimmer, held the new national record for 1,000 yards today by his feat in winning the mile race at the opening of the National A. A. U. championships here.

Swimming last night against a select field, Crabbe easily won the race in 22:14 4-5. During the course of the race he set a new mark for the 1,000 yards of 12:25 2-5, breaking the record held by Norman Ross since 1919.

CANZONERI WINS TEN ROUND BOUT FROM PAINE

Los Angeles, July 14—(U.P.)—Tony Canzoneri of New York, holder of both the world's junior welterweight and light weight titles, easily defeated Cecil Payne of Kentucky in a 10-round defense of his 140 pound class championship here last night.

Canzoneri took all ten rounds. Payne, considered the best lightweight on the Pacific coast, with the possible exception of Billy Townsend of Vancouver, waded right in with his windmill style, but was no match for the champion. Payne was down for a one-count before the initial round was a minute old, but displayed a willingness to mix throughout the fight.

The attendance was 20,000 with gate receipts of $25,000.

Results of other bouts:

Textile Working

In the manufacture of certain fine textile products it is necessary to impregnate fibers with starch and other chemical agencies to preserve them while they are being woven or knitted into finished articles. Textile mills employ several types of mold to generate enzymes that digest these "sizing" materials, leaving the finished product fresh, new and impervious to the harsh ministrations of laundering machinery.

NEW YORK, BROOKLYN HAVE EYES ON FLAG

BEGIN SWING THROUGH WEST, HOPES AT STAKE

ROBINS BEGIN SIMILAR SERIES WITH ST. LOUIS, CURRENT PACE SETTERS

By LEO H. PETERSEN
(United Press Staff Correspnodent)

New York, July 14—(U.P.)—The east's contenders for the 1931 National league pennant—New York and Brooklyn—began a swing through the west today with their championship hopes at stake.

The second place Giants, four and one half games removed from the leadership, opened a four game series against the Chicago Cubs, holders of fourth place, while the Robins, a half contest behind their metropolitan rivals, began a similar series with St. Louis, current pace-setters.

Following the series with the Cubs the Giants will go to St. Louis and the Robins to Chicago. Those sixteen games between the two strongest clubs in the east and the two most formidable teams in the west may go a long way toward deciding the 1931 flag winner.

In order to stay in the running, both New York and Brooklyn will have to break even in their games against the Cardinals and Cubs and win a majority of their contests from Cincinnati and Pittsburgh before the road jaunt comes to a close. Prospects are none too bright for either the Robins or Giants for in their own ball parks the Cardinals and Cubs are about as tough as they come.

The Cardinals took advantage of Giants and Robins open dates yesterday by whipping the Cubs 12 to 5 and increasing their leadership to four and one half games. Burleigh Grimes, coasting under a big lead, came out in front under wraps. A seven-run attack in the fourth inning clinched the contest for St. Louis.

Philadelphia defeated Pittsburgh 1 to 0 in the other National league game. Don Hurst's double, scoring Klein who had singled, manufactured the winning run for the Phillies in the ninth. The contest was a pitching duel between Jumbo Elliott and Ray Kremer. Each allowed five hits.

Philadelphia retained its six game lead in the American league by dividing a double header with the Washington Senators, holders of second place. The Athletics won the first game 12 to 7 as Lefty Grove registered his 18th triumph of the season while Alvin Crowder pitched the Senators to a 6 to 4 decision in the nightcap.

The Senators pounded Grove right merrily in the opener but Grove's mates made the game a rout in the eighth inning when thye scored seven runs, four of them on a home run by Williams, a pinch hitter, with the bases loaded.

Crowder had little trouble in the second game while his mates piled up six runs off Rube Walberg in the first six innings.

No other games were scheduled in the American league.

CHARLEY RETZLAFF MEETS FICUCELLO, BROOKLYN TONIGHT

HAS KNOCKED OUT 32 OPPONENTS DURING BRIEF PROFESSIONAL CAREER

By DIXON STEWART
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

New York, July 14—(U.P.)—Charley Retzlaff, a 195-pound slugger who is storming through heavyweight ranks in a manner reminiscent of Jack Dempsey's climb to fame, will make his metropolitan debut tonight in a 10-round bout with Ralph Ficucello of Brooklyn, at Queensboro stadium.

The 23-year-old "Duluth Dynamiter" has blasted his way past 32 opponents during his brief professional career, knocking out 28 foes without suffering a single defeat. No less an authority that Max Schmeling picks Retzlaff as the next world's champion, and many shrewd boxing men concur in this estimate.

New York fans however are skeptical of reputations established in the "sticks" and are waiting to be shown. Memory of the two-round knockout suffered by Tuffy Griffiths, the last young Lochinvar to come out of the west, at the hands of the then unknown Jimmy Braddock still is fresh and Ficucello is receiving strong support as a 5 to 9 short ender in the betting.

Ficucello, a former national amateur champion, is a stiff puncher and once was regarded as a promising "comer." He will need all of his punching ability against Retzlaff and in addition will need an ability to withstand punishment, which he has not shown in previous matches.

Retzlaff still is a comparative novice although he has been boxing for five years. During the first three years he was kept under cover by his manager, canny Jack Hurley, and trained and boxed in private. A brief amateur career, featured by winnig of the Golden Gloves championship followed and Retzlaff began his professional career a year ago. He clicked from the start and boasts knockouts over Tom Heeney, Jack Gagnon, Marty Gallagher and George Neron in addition to a clean cut victory over Johnny Risko.

Retzlaff's punching ability and his style which like Jack Dempsey's is based entirely on offense, has made him highly popular with the fans and forecasts a return of the sensational slugging bouts which have been missing since the puncher Dempsey was succeeded by boxers.

With heavyweights boxing in such low estate that the aged and long inactive Jack Sharkey, the middleweight Walker and the freakish Carnera, command ranking as leading contenders for the title, the field is wide open for a sensational young slugger and Retzlaff has a great chance to blast his way to the championship. If he shows his true worth against Ficucello he is certain to get plenty of work in New York and he might easily battle his way into a title bout within another year.

LORAINE UDELL KNOCKS OUT DEVORAK IN THE SIXTH ROUND

St. Cloud, Minn., July 14—(U.P.)—Willie Kidd, Minneapolis professional won the weekly competition over the St. Cloud golf course. Mel Johnson, St. Cloud, had 79.

DUSTER CRABBE SETS MARK FOR 1,000-YARD SWIM

Honolulu, July 14.—(U.P.)—Duster Crabbe, star Los Angeles swimmer, held the new national record for 1,000 yards today by his feat in winning the mile race at the opening of the National A. A. U. championships here.

Swimming last night against a select field, Crabbe easily won the race in 22:14 4-5. During the course of the race he set a new mark for the 1,000 yards of 12:25 2-5, breaking the record held by Norman Ross since 1919.

CANZONERI WINS TEN ROUND BOUT FROM PAINE

Los Angeles, July 14—(U.P.)—Tony Canzoneri of New York, holder of both the world's junior welterweight and light weight titles, easily defeated Cecil Payne of Kentucky in a 10-round defense of his 140 pound class championship here last night.

Canzoneri took all ten rounds. Payne, considered the best lightweight on the Pacific coast, with the possible exception of Billy Townsend of Vancouver, waded right in with his windmill style, but was no match for the champion. Payne was down for a one-count before the initial round was a minute old, but displayed a willingness to mix throughout the fight.

The attendance was 20,000 with gate receipts of $25,000.

Results of other bouts:

DIBRELL WILLIAMS HITS A HOME RUN WITH BASES LOADED

Yesterday's hero — Dibrell Williams, substitute infielder, who batted for Lefty Grove in the eighth inning and hit a home run with the bases loaded to start the rally which gave Philadelphia a 12 to 7 victory over Washington in the first game of their double-header.

HOW BOBBY JONES USES THE NIBLICK

Golfers will find it very much worth their while to visit the Palace Theatre tonight or tomorrow to see golf's greatest champion, Bobby Jones, in the third of his Vitaphone short subjects on "How I Play Golf" and learn how a master uses the niblick. The title of lesson three is "The Niblick." Aside from its interest for golfers, the picture tells an entertaining story for the general pubic and incudes a number of Hollywood stars in the cast.

(By United Press)

When Joe Morrissey knocked out a homer with two men on in the seventh St. Paul cinched another game with Toledo, 8 to 5.

The second place American Association Colonels, meanwhile, dropped a notch when they lost to Milwaukee, 1 to 7.

Minneapolis, in third place, climbed a bit by defeating Columbus, 4 to 3, in an eighth-inning rally. Harris' homer with a man on base tied the count and Meusel scored the winning run from second on Binder's error.

The Indians and Blues were idle yesterday.

Textile Working

In the manufacture of certain fine textile products it is necessary to impregnate fibers with starch and other chemical agencies to preserve them while they are being woven or knitted into finished articles. Textile mills employ several types of mold to generate enzymes that digest these "sizing" materials, leaving the finished product fresh, new and impervious to the harsh ministrations of laundering machinery.
